Illinois Welcome Awaits Governor

Stevenson To Quit Post For Campaign

CHICAGO (AP)—Governor Adlai E. Stevenson returns today to Springfield and a tumultuous welcome from the Illinois capital, to prepare himself for the role of Democratic standard bearer in the 1952 presidential campaign.

He will pick up, but only temporarily, the reins of the job he had repeatedly said he wanted for four more years—Governor of Illinois. Then he will resign to devote himself to the role "I did not want"—candidate for the President of the United States.

The Democratic nominee spent the week end conferring with party leaders on campaign plans. Among them was Sen. John Sparkman of Alabama, whom the Democratic National Convention chose as Stevenson's running mate as candidate for vice-president.

Agree on Hard Campaign

Frank E. McKinnel, Democratic national chairman, told reporters the party high command had agreed on a "hard-hitting campaign of no more than 60 days." It will begin on Labor Day.

McKinney said the party's big four speaking team will be President Truman, who advised the chairman, "I am at your disposal," Vice-President Alben Barkley, an unsuccessful candidate for the top spot on the 1952 ticket, Stevenson and Sparkman.

The chairman said the team will carry the campaign into every part of the nation, and President Truman has promised a repetition of his 1948 whistle stop speaking tour that salvaged victory out of generally predicted defeat.

Dever Visits Stevenson

Besides Sparkman and McKinney, other Stevenson visitors Sunday included Gov. Paul A. Dever of Massachusetts, Averell Harriman, Sen. Robert Kerr of Oklahoma and Mrs. India Edwards, vice-chairman of the Democratic National Committee.

Dever, his own state's "favorite son" candidate for the presidential nomination, told reporters he believes with Stevenson the Democrats can carry Massachusetts, Rhode Island and "maybe Connecticut," and other New England states.

Harriman and Kerr, defeated candidates for the Democratic nomination, pledged Stevenson their support.

It was disclosed that Dever had persuaded Harriman to withdraw in favor of Stevenson after the second ballot at the convention Friday. A reliable source said Harriman planned to delay his withdrawal until the sixth ballot, but the Massachusetts governor persuaded him that the delay might enable Barkley or Sen. Estes Kefauver of Tennessee to win.

Eisenhower Ends 10-Day Vacation

Nixon, Ike Confer On Campaign Plans

DENVER (AP)—Back at his campaign headquarters after a 10-day vacation, Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower stowed away his fishing gear and turned full attention today to pressing his bid for the presidency.

The Republican nominee returned here last night from the Rocky Mountain cattle ranch near Fraser, Colo., where he went for a rest a few days after the Republican National Convention.

Confers With Adams

First on the general's agenda today was a conference with his newly appointed political chief of staff, Gov. Sherman Adams of New Hampshire. Eisenhower plans to spend most of the rest of the week conferring with other party leaders.

Yesterday, the general's final day at Fraser, was devoted only in part to relaxation. A good share was given over to discussion of campaign plans with his vice presidential running mate, Sen. Richard M. Nixon of California.

Learns Trout Casting

Nixon drove to the ranch from Denver early in the morning and—before the serious talking got started—received his first lesson in how to cast for trout. His tutor? The GOP presidential nominee, an expert fisherman.

Before the conference, Eisenhower and Nixon joined in predicting a Republican victory in November over the ticket the Democrats selected in Chicago last week—Gov. Adlai Stevenson of Illinois as the presidential candidate and Sen. John J. Sparkman of Alabama for vice president.

Nixon said he was confident "we are going to have the victory for Gen. Eisenhower that the country needs."

Seated on a bench alongside the California senator, Eisenhower interrupted and told his 39-year-old running mate:

"You mean victory for the party and not just for me, my boy—and, more important, victory for the country."

After the conference in Eisenhower's rustic cabin, Nixon issued this statement:

"The general and I discussed campaign organization and itinerary, as well as strategy and tactics and several of the major issues."

"The general and I agreed that this shall be as intensive a campaign as we can make it. We expect to conduct a fighting campaign on the issues and the facts, and to bring our case to the people."

"When the campaign gets underway, we shall visit as many of the states as possible, including states in the South."

Hence the nomination of Alabama's Sen. Sparkman to run with Stevenson on the Democratic ticket apparently had no effect on plans of the Republican candidates to invade the South—traditionally solid for the Democrats.

Steelworkers Return To Jobs; Some Unsatisfied

"Not Across Board," 5,500-Member Local Says Of Wage Boost

PITTSBURGH (AP)—Steelworkers stepped-up the pace of their back-to-work movement today but a few still grumbled over the wage settlement reached with Big Steel.

The undercurrent of dissatisfaction leaked from a 5,500 member CIO United Steelworkers local at Jones & Laughlin's south side Pittsburgh plant.

James McLaughlin, president of Local 1843, said his group voted during the weekend to return to work but under "protest." He said he will forward the protest to CIO and United Steelworkers President Philip Murray.

Doesn't Give Equal Hike
McLaughlin said the principal complaint stems from the fact that the wage increase is "not across the board"—giving the same increase to all workers regardless of their type of work.

The basic agreement calls for a 12½ cent an hour increase to the lowest paid classification and increases that amount by a half-cent up through 25 classifications with the highest classification worker getting 25 cents an hour.

The strike settlement agreement gives workers an average 16½ cents boost effective last March 1 and a modified form of union shop, under which new employees have the right to withdraw from the union and old employees not members may stay out.

Agreed At White House

Basic terms for settling the 55-day-old strike were agreed on at the White House Thursday and ratified by the steelworkers' Wage-Policy Committee the next day.

Details are being worked out in a companion strike of 23,000 iron workers. They were granted almost a similar package.

And the steel companies got from the government the right to raise prices an average of $5.65 a ton. The present price for carbon steel, the basic grade, averages about $110 a ton.

The order authorizing industry to boost its prices is expected momentarily.

But the union-industry settlement didn't hit a proper chord with Economic Stabilizer Roger L. Putnam. In a letter to Price Director Ellis Arnall he accused the steel industry of having held a loaded gun at the government's head to get an "unjustified price increase."

It will be at least a week before full steel production starts rolling from the 380 hungry steel mills across the nation.

'Flying Saucers' Again Seen Over Capital; Jets Give Chase

WASHINGTON (AP)—Radar—which normally doesn't show something that isn't there—has picked up "flying saucers" near the nation's capital for the second time within a week.

Jet fighter pilots searched the skies without directly contacting anything during the six hours that four to 12 unidentified objects intermittently appeared on radar screens at Washington National Airport and nearby Andrews Air Force Base.

One pilot said he saw four lights approximately 10 miles away and slightly above him but they disappeared before he could overtake them. Later, the same pilot said, he saw "a steady white light" five miles away that vanished in about a minute.

So far as could be determined, this was the first time jets have been sent on the trail of such sky ghosts.

Officials carefully avoided mentioning "flying saucers," just as they did when radar picked up seven or eight unidentified objects near Washington last Monday. But the Air Force was expected to add the report to its long list of saucer sightings, which officials say are coming in faster than at any time since the initial flurry in 1947.

Radar normally does not register anything without substance—such as light. But it can pick up such things as a bird in flight or a cloud formation. And one expert said radar is not infallible.

The Air Force reported that between four and 12 unidentified objects appeared at 8:08 p. m. Eastern Standard Time Saturday night on the radar screen at the Air Route Traffic Control Center operated by the Civil Aeronautics Administration. Their position was estimated at 10 miles east of Mount Vernon, Va., which is near Washington National Airport.

Word went to the Air Force, which sent up two jet fighter intercepter planes from a base at New Castle, Del., some 90 miles from Washington.

When the planes appeared on the radarscope at approximately 10:25 p. m. the CAA tried without success to guide the planes into contact with the mystery objects. It was during this search that the pilot made his two sightings of lights.

The planes left for their base at 12:40 a. m. and the two other jets took over and stayed in the area until 1:20 a. m. without making contacts.

The pilot who spotted the lights said they "were really moving"—faster than 600 miles an hour. But radar operators at Andrews Air Force Base said they moved at a "slow rate of speed"—33 to 90 miles per hour. This could mean the same pattern as last week's sightings—slow moving objects with bursts of speed.

TRIAL CONTINUES—Maj. Gen. Robert W. Grow is pictured during the recess in his court-martial at Fort Meade, Md. He is charged with allowing a personal diary to fall into the hands of Communist agents. The general was formerly a military attaché at the U. S. Embassy in Moscow.

Average High This Summer Is 88 Degrees

Remember June 20?
That's the night when the temperature dropped to a cool 34 degrees.

Ever since summer 1952 made its auspicious debut on June 21 the mercury has maintained a steady, scorching, humid sway. Only on June 20 was there a real break in what was to prove an unusually hot summer.

Maximum temperatures have averaged 87.9 degrees to date—not counting today which the weatherman predicted would be "another hot one."

The average minimum this summer has been 57.9, records reveal. Taking July by itself, the average maximum has been 87.4 and the minimum 56.7.

There have been at least 14 days this summer when the mercury shot upward into the 90's. All but six other days had readings in the 80's.

Weather Observer L. H. Copeland's records show that average summer temperatures are 80.8 for maximum and 56.1 for low.

Temperatures this summer, naturally, are above average.

Egypt's Wafdist Party Backs Farouk Ouster

CAIRO, Egypt (AP)—The head of Egypt's powerful Wafdist party voiced jubilant support today for the country's new strong man, Maj. Gen. Mohammed Naguib Bey, and hailed his ouster of King Farouk and his promise of a relentless nationwide cleanup of "bribery and corruption."

The sweeping praise for Naguib came from Mustapha El Nahas Pasha, the party head whom Farouk ousted from the premiership after last January's disastrous fire riots in Cairo and who returned early today from a European holiday.

Egypt's Largest Party
A high Wafdist source said the party, Egypt's largest and the sweeping victor in the last general elections, would support Naguib and his new premier, Aly Maher Pasha.

Naguib, himself, was at the airport to embrace Nahas Pasha when he arrived with Wafdist secretary general Fuad Serag El Din Pasha.

"I thank God our people now are entrusted to our valiant Army commander," Nahas declared, adding, "I pray to God to grant success to the task undertaken by General Naguib."

Called Saviour of Country
Later, after a conference with Naguib at Egyptian Army headquarters, Nahas called Naguib the "savior of the country."

Nahas Pasha's praise for Naguib and his plans took on particular interest for observers here, since much of the corruption which the new regime has sworn to root out and punish has been charged in the past to members of the earlier Wafdist administration.

The violently nationalist Wafdist, too, were chiefly responsible for Egypt's ordering the British out of the Suez Canal zone and the Anglo-Egyptian Sudan.

The new cabinet, meanwhile, moved back to Cairo and Naguib sternly warned that he and Maher Pasha would "meet with armed force if necessary any attempt at demonstrations or disorders." He warned, too, that foreign interference would not be tolerated.

Body Lies in State
The blonde wife of President Juan D. Peron lay in state in the hall of the Labor Ministry, in a glass-topped casket of mahogany draped in white orchids, awaiting a full military funeral tomorrow afternoon. Tons of lilies, roses and carnations packed the hall and overflowed into the streets outside.

Crowds of somberly dressed, sober-faced mourners were first admitted to the improvised chapel Sunday afternoon and continued in an endless procession throughout the night and morning.

Peron spent much of Sunday beside the casket and personally arranged the placement of the bier. After a private funeral mass, attended only by government ministers and intimate friends, he ordered the restless crowds admitted. They had shouted to see the LISBON—Three motorists were fined a total of $205 and costs before Mayor Wilbur Warren over the weekend.

Edward J. Kelly of South Bend, Ind. and Clifford Parrish of near Lisbon were each fined $100 and costs on drunken driving charges. Kelly was cited Friday night by Lisbon police.

Farrish was involved in an auto accident July 20 when his car hit the rear of a trailer in Lisbon. He had been in Salem City Hospital for several days, and has been taken to Mahoning County jail in lieu of payment of his fine.

30 From Here Inspect Swimming Pool Sunday
Eight cars, containing from 25 to 30 Salem residents, comprised the caravan which journeyed to Greenville, Pa., Sunday to inspect the new swimming pool in that city.

The group, which left the Memorial Building at 1:30 p. m., was met in Greenville by the engineer in charge of the pool and was conducted on a tour of the premises. Those who made the trip expressed considerable enthusiasm over the benefits of the municipal pool.

The caravan was planned so that ideas could be expanded and comparisons could be made in the drive for a swimming pool in Salem.

Five Injured In Weekend Traffic Mishaps

Laurin Andric Jr. Killed In Collision Near Columbiana

Another name was added to Columbiana County's mounting traffic death list Sunday when a 21-year-old Lisbon youth was killed in a two-car mishap which occurred at 9:50 p. m. on Route 14, two miles east of Columbiana. A total of five other persons were injured over the weekend in traffic mishaps.

The grisly total for the year now numbers 22, with seven of the recorded deaths occurring this month.

Laurin Andric Jr., 21, of RD 3, Lisbon sustained a crushed head and was pronounced dead on arrival at the Salem City Hospital. He was a passenger in a car, driven west on Route 14 by James Gardner, 29, of RD 2, Lisbon, which collided with an approaching auto operated by Joe Thornton, 35, of Pittsburgh, Pa.

Another Passenger Injured
Another passenger in the Gardner car, Jack Adams, 21, of Columbiana, sustained a fractured right leg and is in fairly good condition at the hospital today.

Mr. Thornton received lacerations of the right knee and bruises of the chest and his wife, Ruth A. 32, suffered lacerations of the knees and face. The driver and his wife were admitted to Salem City Hospital where each is in fairly good condition.

Gardner sustained a laceration of the right shoulder and was treated at the hospital.

State Highway Patrolmen cited him for reckless operation and he was fined $50 and costs by Mayor Lloyd Culler of Washingtonville. His auto was demolished and extensive damage was caused to the other car.

Employee of National Sanitary
The victim of the fatal mishap was born in Lisbon Feb. 5, 1931, a son of Laurin and Pearl Westover Andric Sr. He was an employee of the National Sanitary Co. here.

Besides his parents he leaves three brothers, Garry Lee of the home, Charles Ray in California and Carl of Lisbon; a sister, Mrs. Homer Swanson of Lisbon, and paternal grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Ben Andric of near Lisbon.

Funeral services will be held at 2 p. m. Wednesday at the Henry Funeral Home in Lisbon. Interment will be in Lisbon Cemetery.

Friends may call at the funeral home Tuesday afternoon and evening.

Barnes sustained lacerations of the scalp and the right finger and was treated at the Central Clinic.

In a similar mishap, Richard Cobbs, 18, of RD 1, Beloit, lost control of his car at 3 a. m. Sunday as he was driving west on Route 62, two miles west of Salem, causing it to run off the highway and overturn. Cobbs was uninjured.

Cars driven by Mrs. Fred Young of Kenmore, Ky. and Galen Scott, 51, of Chicago, Ill., sideswiped at 12:45 a. m. Sunday on Route 30, two miles north of East Liverpool.

Norman Brandon, 27, of RD 1, Rochester, Pa. lost control of his car at 10:30 p. m. Sunday on Route 170, just north of Negley, causing it to leave the highway and crash into a home owned by Mike Bica. The front end of the car and the porch of the house were damaged.

Anti-Trumanites Win In Texas

Gov. Shivers Swept Back Into Office

DALLAS, Tex. (AP)—More than a million Texas voters turned a political cold shoulder to Washington Saturday as they swept Gov. Allan Shivers back into office and nominated Price Daniel, state attorney general to succeed Texas' retiring Sen. Tom Connally. Shivers and Daniel are anti-Truman administration Democrats.

Shivers beat down the double-barrelled challenge of Austin Attorney Ralph Yarborough, backed by the pro-Truman faction of the State Democratic party, and Mrs. Allene Traylor, San Antonio housewife. Incomplete returns gave him 672,459 votes to 395,802 for Yarborough, who conceded. Mrs. Traylor polled only 29,663.

Daniel was opposed by Rep. Lindley Beckworth, regarded as a Truman administration favorite; and E. W. Napier, an unknown Wichita Falls attorney. A Sunday night count gave Daniel 736,844 to 234,208 for Beckworth and 72,947 for Napier.

The voting was in the Democratic primary in which nomination usually means election in heavily-Democratic Texas.

The primary results and precinct meetings Saturday left the state Democratic outlook as uncertain as it has been. Another battle between state party factions over the binding of presidential electors to national party nominees seemed a sure thing for the September state convention.

Meanwhile, it appeared Martin Dies, original chairman of the House Un-American Activities Committee, faced a runoff with former Lieut. Gov. John Lee Smith of Lubbock for congressman-at-large. Dies held a majority until early Sunday night then Smith edged into the picture. The latest tabulation showed Dies with 48.24 per cent of the vote among the seven candidates.

Shivers led the anti-Truman Texas delegation to the Democratic National Convention in Chicago last week. Daniel, a leader in the fight for state ownership of tidelands, called Beckworth a supporter of the Truman administration. Beckworth denied he had been influenced by the administration to take up the fight against Daniel. Dies had a long record of anti-administration activity in Congress before he voluntarily retired in 1945 after the late President Roosevelt led steady New Deal criticism of Dies and his Communist-hunting committee.

Also re-nominated for return to Washington were veteran Speaker of the House Sam Rayburn and Reps. Wright Patman of Texas, Wingate Lucas of Grapevine, O. Clark Fisher of San Angelo, and W. R. (Bob) Poage of Waco.

Opponents of Rayburn and Patman, Reagan Brown of Terrell and Joe McCasland of Jefferson, had styled themselves anti-New Deal and anti-administration.

2-Week Delay In Full Steel Output Seen

CLEVELAND (AP)—A few maintenance workers reported in Ohio steel mills Sunday to prepare for resumption of steel-making which industry spokesmen do not expect to hit full stride for two weeks.

Less than a 10th of the state's 115,000 steel workers idled in the 55-day shutdown were back.

Republic Steel had 500 of its 10,000 on duty here and tapped its first iron Sunday night. Republic's blast furnaces in Youngstown are expected to be fired up today and the first steel is expected there Thursday.

Youngstown Sheet & Tube Co. plans to have its strip mills moving Tuesday and its seamless mill started Wednesday.

The last of nine Cleveland Cliffs Iron Co. ore boats in Cleveland harbor steamed out Sunday for the ore fields and mines.

The New York Central System announced a few of 1,800 laid-off workers would be recalled tonight and Tuesday, and the rest after steel production gets going.

How Rival German Armies Will Stack Up---

When—and if—the six-power European Defense Community pact is ratified, the way will be cleared for a West German army, wearing uniforms of the UN's European force. It will make up the largest armed group facing Russia on the East. Opposed to it will be the highly organized "People's Army" of Eastern Germany, led by East German Security Minister Wilhelm Zaisser and taking orders from the Kremlin. How the two armies stack up in their respective potentialities is illustrated on Newschart above. The West German forces will carry heavy American arms and be organized on the U.S. model. They will be part of the six-nation European force to which France, Italy, Germany, Belgium, Holland and Luxembourg will contribute. The Communist-sponsored East German force, with its individual blue uniform, is trained by Russians and led by former Nazi officers. Members attend classes in Communist doctrine two hours a day. A weak point in its morale and recruiting is that young East Germans have only a grim choice—join the "People's Police" or dig in the uranium mines.

Child's Wetting May Reflect Insecurity

When they happen to think about it, parents do not expect their babies to behave like grownups. But they do often become unduly concerned when their "pride and joy" does not get control over his or her natural functions as early in life as some neighbor's child.

A healthy baby usually begins to establish bowel control when between one and two years old. When the baby is nine or 10 months old it can be placed for a short period on the "potty." This should be done at first with the child lying down, as it is not able to sit up safely yet.

Most infants begin to catch on quickly, especially if praise is given when the desired results occur. The "potty" should be used regularly at the same time of day, usually after the first morning meal. But don't wear out either the mother or the baby by keeping it up too long if success is not achieved.

The infant enjoys cleanliness and appreciates the praise received. The parents ought not to get cross when the infant fails. Once bowel control has become established and the child is a little older, the responsibility should be placed on the child rather than the parent.

In small babies the process of emptying the bladder is automatic. As soon as the bladder is stretched to a certain point, the nerves carry the message to the spinal cord and the bladder is emptied without further ado.

Gradually, the sensation of a full bladder begins to be carried to the brain itself, and when this develops, it is possible for the child to control urination. Until the message is received in the brain, however, it is useless to expect something the baby cannot do.

In some cases, wetting beyond the usual age may reflect a feeling of insecurity. After the evacuation of children from London to the country at the time of the "bombing blitz" there was an increase in bed wetting in the older children. This was the result of the understandable feeling of uncertainty and insecurity to which these children were subjected.

Similar things can happen to children who live where the parents quarrel, in broken homes, or those in which one child is, or seems to be, more favored by the parents than another. In fact, almost anything which makes a young child feel insecure may delay control of bodily functions.

BIG BANG for the Bored Car Owner

Have you ever driven a Buick SPECIAL?

Do you know how it feels to touch off the most powerful engine you'll find in any car of its pounds and price?

Do you know that it almost steers itself—holds its course like an airliner on the beam—even comes back on course after taking a turn?

Do you know that there's silken magic in its Dynaflo Drive*?

Do you know how many miles it can get from a gallon of gas?

Do you know that it has a Million Dollar Ride?

Mister, if you haven't found out such things, you're missing a lot of fun every mile you drive.

You're missing the fun of bossing around a big hoodful of high-compression, valve-in-head Fireball 8 Engine.

Woman Falls From Airliner

Drops Through Door To Death In Atlantic

RIO DE JANEIRO, Brazil (AP)—The door of a Pan American Airlines Stratocruiser blew open in flight yesterday and the sudden draft sucked an American-born woman out of her seat and to her death in the Atlantic Ocean 12,000 feet below.

The victim was identified as Mrs. Marie Elizabeth Westbrook Capellaro, daughter of Mrs. Bessie Macchris of Los Angeles, Calif., and wife of Emilio Capellaro, a banker of Rome, Italy. She was accompanying Capellaro on a business trip.

In Los Angeles, a spokesman for the woman's family said her mother knew she had planned to marry Capellaro but did not know the ceremony had taken place. He said the woman talked by telephone with her mother on Saturday and 'did not say anything at that time about being married. I am sure she would have told her mother if she were.' He identified the victim as the widow of U. S. Air Force Col. Robert B. Westbrook, who was shot down during World War II.

The plane door blew off shortly after the takeoff from Rio de Janeiro, when the aircraft was 27 miles out on a flight to Montevideo, Uruguay. Passengers and crew members said they did not see the woman disappear. Capellaro, sitting next to her, said he was not looking in her direction.

The woman's seat, next to a window and just forward of the door, was twisted and part of the cloth lining the ceiling of the cabin was ripped off. The plane returned to Rio and three Brazilian Air Force planes were sent to search the area of the disappearance.

Group Plans Campaign To Get Voters To Polls

TROY, O. (AP)—The committee for an Ohio constitutional convention is planning an intensive educational campaign to get pro-convention voters to the polls Nov. 4. The group, which wants a convention called to revamp the state constitution, is headed by Robert S. Miller, Troy attorney, and includes prominent labor and civic leaders and attorneys.

"WOODEN CURTAIN" FOR GERMANY—East German workers erect a long line of wooden poles along the East-West German border near Hohegeis and Braunlage in the Hartz Mountain district. Communist East German government sent thousands of workers to the border to complete a 10-yard-wide "dead zone" no-man's-land. Poles are being strung with barbed wire. This picture was taken with a long-range lens when the workers' Communist guards were out of sight.

Hog Disease May Cancel Show Plans

COLUMBUS, O. (AP)—Vesicular exanthema—a hog disease—today threatened plans for the swine show at the forthcoming Ohio State Fair, Aug. 22-29.

The U. S. Bureau of Animal Industry was expected to impose a quarantine on shipment of nearly all hogs in and out of Franklin County.

The action was planned because a herd of hogs on a farm near Columbus was 'shipped from an area in New Jersey where the disease is heavy.

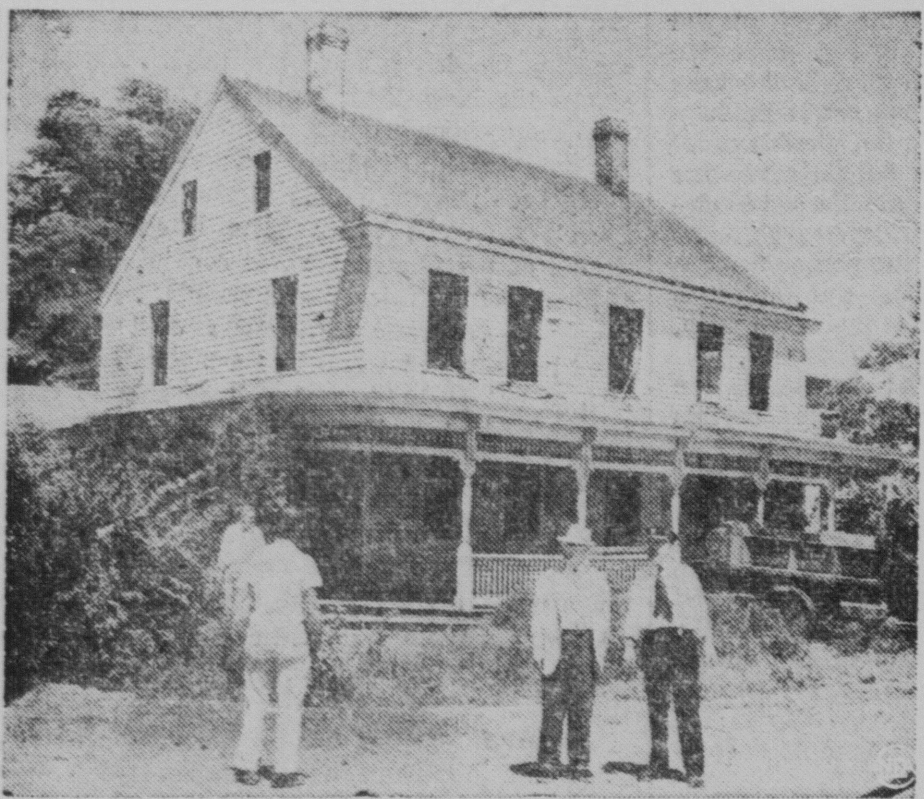

The herd is now under state quarantine while veterinarians check the hogs for the disease. This may take several more days.

It's a new hog malady for Ohio, which just recently cleared up its last case of anthrax. That disease killed hundreds of hogs in most of the counties in the state.

Vesicular exanthema, which started in California, has spread to about a dozen states, according to Dr. Harry G. Geyer, head veterinarian in the state agriculture department.

The white frame house, at New Haven, Conn., seen above, was erected before the American Revolution. In those days, when men built, they built to stay. Owned by the city, it was scheduled for destruction as it was in the way of a new road. But the building was so strongly constructed that it was extremely difficult to tear down. So the city decided to burn it down, at little or no cost, while at the same time giving the fire department some practice in handling fires. In upper picture, Fire Chief Paul P. But the union denied there was any surprise element in the strike threat or that the union had broken off negotiations.

Arthur J. Goldberg, general counsel for the union said the company was told two weeks ago the union must have an agreement by Tuesday or it would strike.

Whether the total of union demands upon Alcoa was more than the steelworkers got from the steel industry was irrelevant, Goldberg said.

The company said a strike would shut off about 50 per cent of its production in plants at Bridgeport, Conn.; Edgewater, N. J.; New Kensington, Pa.; Badin, N. C.; Alcoa, Tenn.; Bauxite, Ark.; Mobile, Ala.; Detroit, Mich.; and Richmond, Ind.

In other plants where the AFL represents employees, the company reached a settlement last week.

PLAY MINIATURE GOLF FOR FUN AND RECREATION

Roving Reports By HAL BOYLE

HOMETOWN, U. S. A. (AP)—When Trellis Mae Peeble, America's average housewife, returned home from the national Democratic convention, she found her husband drinking a bottle of milk of magnesia.

"There's nothing else left in the house to eat," explained Wilbur. "The sardines gave out Wednesday—and I ate the last of the canned chili Sunday."

"You poor dear—you begin to fall apart every time I go away," said Trellis Mae, who took her husband's malnutrition as a personal tribute.

She phoned for some groceries, cooked him a square meal, then said:

"Well, I suppose you want to hear more about my trip? There is certainly nothing more fun than a political convention. Parties every night. And so cheap, too! I think every housewife in America ought to attend a national political convention."

"Cheap?" exploded Wilbur. "It cost me $425 to go to the Republican convention, and I'm afraid to ask what you must have spent at that National Donkey Serenade in Chicago. You wrote for money every day."

"Oh, I just did that so you wouldn't spend the money yourself," said Trellis Mae. "Here it is all back." And she opened her purse and handed Wilbur a big roll of bills.

"Let's see how much it really did cost me," she said. "There was $41.50 for the plane ticket to Chicago, $1.25 to the hotel, and 50 cents for the bellhop. That makes $43.25 all told."

"What do you mean—$43.25 all told?" said Wilbur. "Didn't you eat all week? How about your hotel bill, that new dress you bought to go to Perle Mesta's party, and your plane fare home? Don't tell me the democratic National committee paid for all that?"

Trellis Mae looked a little vague. "Oh no, that was Mr. Petrol, the Texas oil millionaire delegate I met," she said. "He insisted on taking care of all my incidental expenses."

"Now, Trellis Mae, you know better than —" began her husband suspiciously.

"Oh, don't be silly, Wilbur," said Trellis Mae. "He was old enough to be my father. Besides, what could I do? The man simply dripped

$100 bills wherever he went. When I objected to his grabbing the hotel bill out of my hands, he said, 'if you are going to make a scene about this, I'll simply buy the whole damned hotel, and cancel your bill.'

"And the same thing happened at the airport. He threatened to buy the airline if I wouldn't let him get my ticket. When we shook hands goodbye, Mr. Petrol said, 'Trellis Mae, it sure has been fun—I'm going to name my next oil well after you. See you at the 1956 convention.'

"He certainly sounds fatherly," remarked Wilbur, acidly.

He looked with interest as Trellis Mae removed two photos from her suitcase and put them on her dressing table. One photo was inscribed, "Dear Mrs. Peeble. You were the hit of my party. Be sure to bring Wilbur and visit me in Luxembourg. Perle Mesta."

The other photo said, "To Trellis Mae, conventionally yours. See you in the White House."

"I can't read the signature on this one," said Wilbur. "What does it say?"

"It says 'Adlai,'" said Trellis Mae airily. "Who else?"

Best Choice

There is no reason to be skittish in the presence of the plain fact that the Democratic National Convention picked its best choice
for the presidential nomination this year.

Adlai Stevenson running against Dwight Eisenhower will put the Democratic party's best foot forward. As the candidate of a party which has earned the right to claim favorite rating in its contests with the Republican party,
Gov. Stevenson will be a powerful contender for popular favor.

He has a widely diversified experience in public affairs. He has been a competent administrator of the state affairs of Illinois. He has a very high aptitude of expression.

He is balanced in his political thinking between the best of the new and the best of the old, which makes him a moderate. He commands respect for his opinions even among those who differ with him, because he has won the advantage of having his good faith
taken for granted.

If any of the Democratic party's potential candidates had a chance to persuade voters that the party could undo the degeneration of its long tenure of federal power, Gov. Stevenson clearly was the best bet when the convention met.

It was that certainly which caused him to be the natural focus of interest and enthusiasm—which caused all the other candidates and their backers to become involved in one form or another of stop-Stevenson tactics. He was the man to beat.

Gen. Eisenhower and Gov. Stevenson should be able to make the 1952 presidential campaign a historic stand-out for vigor and exposition. They should be able to inspire their party followings with enthusiasm which will keep this year's national election from being cursed with popular apathy.

As individuals, however, they would be helpless. In each case, the possibilities of leadership depends on ability to inspire and direct followers. The presidential contest is between parties, not men.

Therein lies Gov. Stevenson's disadvantage.
His party's record, despite its loud claims of having presided over 20 years of prosperity,
is dark.

It presided over 7 years of boondoggling, pump-priming and legislative reform. It then presided over 5 years of war-booming and inflation. Since the war, it has been presiding over a Keynesian process of spending the nation's way out of deflation.

Its fumbles at home and abroad, its troubles with corruption and its stubborn refusal to wake up to the menace of the Communist conspiracy are in its record. Gov. Stevenson, the best choice the Democrats could have made, must run on a party record which left him no room for illusions.

He took the nomination on terms which at least gave an illusion of separation from the Democratic organization, though he was backed by the Avery machine in Chicago and by President Truman. This was his first problem, but it will not be his last one.

The job which now falls to Gen. Eisenhower and his party is to confront voters squarely with the big question of the 1952 election: Which party is better qualified to deal with the mounting problems which the Democratic party has been unable to solve?

This Could Be It

The United States would be better off with a two-party system in the Deep South. The Democratic convention of 1952 might mark the beginning of such a system.

The convention revealed that the balance of party control lies with men who have no sympathy for the South. Together with the Republican convention's frank bid for the southern votes with its delegate manipulating, this showed southern Democrats that their future lies with the Republican minority, not with the Democratic majority.

This is the duplicate of a pattern already familiar in Congress. Since the collapse of the Roosevelt New Deal in the late thirties, the balance of legislative power has been held by a coalition of southern Democrats and northern Republicans.

Control of Congress was wrested from the bloc which voted with the administration, even though it was a nominal majority. But key votes, the majority disappeared. A senator like Harry Byrd of Virginia has lined up on the Republican side of domestic issues much more frequently than he has lined up on the Democratic side. Yet Byrd always has been and will continue to be a Democrat.

There may come a time when this natural combination will be reflected in an appropriate party title—such as Republican-Democratic party. The present Democratic party would be more appropriately described by the title of Socialist-Union party, which is what it is in fact.

That would bring about a universal two-party system. After 1951, southern Democrats must have a place to go in national politics.
They have nothing in common with the Reuther brothers, the Humphreys, Moodys, and rein-carnated Rooseveltians now in the saddle and riding high.

Your Choice

By DR. GEORGE S. BENSON

If You Take Socialism You Lose Freedom

Wherever people gather to discuss the problem of the "isms"
there is usually disagreement on which constitutes the worst threat to American liberty—Socialism or Communism. Ex-Communists, and almost invariably all persons who have taken active leadership in fighting Communism head-on, contend that international Communism is by far the greatest threat to our liberties.

Recently I've talked at length with Ted Kirkpatrick, the former FBI special agent who recently edited the anti-Communist publication Counterattack; with Matthew Cvetcic, who was a Communist for nine years for the FBI, Dr. J. B.
Mathews, leading American authority on Communist infiltration; Louis Budenz, former member of the American Communist polit-buro; and Ed Gibbons, editor of Alert, the Pacific Coast anti-Communist newspaper. All consider international Communism, as represented in the world-girdling organization headquartered in Moscow and its powerful Fifth Column
in America, the greatest danger confronting America. Whittaker Chambers, who worked in the Soviet underground here, does too.

THE TRAGIC LOSS of our major-
ally, China, to the Communists,
which the bi-partisan Senate Judiciary Committee has traced directly to Communist influence inside
our government, strengthens the opinion of these men. Even so,
the fact remains that for Communism to conquer our nation our industrial production must first be badly crippled and our people must be weaned away from their acceptance of the basic principles of our way of life. In other words, their will to fight for those principles must be weakened if the Reds hope to win.

It's my conviction that our nation's protective forces have at last been sufficiently alerted against the Fifth Column to prevent wholesale industrial sabotage.

The gravest danger from the Communists, therefore, is in the Communist propaganda aimed at the minds of our people and which seeks gradually to swing us, first,
into an acceptance of socialistic
measures, and then into full Communism by "evolution or revolution."

Therefore, Socialism, which is the first untraceable step of a nation heading downhill, is a menace so serious that its threat cannot be separated from that of Communism itself.

FOR YEARS I've said that Communism and Socialism are Siamese-twins; interrelated, inseparable. Socialism is defined as government ownership or control of the means of production and distribution. In economics, Communism requires exactly the same thing.
The social philosophies, or credos,
differ at least on the surface. Some self-styled Socialists accept the idea of God. Communists don't. But every Communist intellectual I've ever come across speaks of Socialism as the basic philosophy of Communists.

What are the signs of the growth of the Socialist idea in our nation? There are many. Earl Browder, Communist leader who was booted out of the party for harboring questioning thoughts about Stalin, says the following measures are necessary in this nation in order for full State Socialism, or Communism, to eventually take over:

"Government deficit financing;
manipulation of bank reserves requirements; insurance of bank deposits; guarantee of mortgages;
control of bank credits; tinkering
with the currency system; regulation of installment buying; price controls; price support for farm products; agricultural credits; R
FC loans to business corporations;
social security systems for workers; various benefits for veterans;
government housing; juggling of the tax structure; government-organized foreign loans; stimulated war armament production on a large scale."

Can a nation employ these measures and still not have full Socialism? It certainly can—for a time. Ours has. The grave danger, as Browder and all Socialists gleefully affirm, is that all of these measures are giving the government more and more power
and control of the nation's economy.

As it takes control, the people lose
it—in exact ratio.

That's a simple mathematical fact. When the government largely controls the economy it is a Socialist government. That's also a simple fact. And still a third fact is that human liberty has never survived in a Socialist State. Stalin would say to Americans: "Take your choice—Communism or gradual Socialism—we'll get you either way!"

Our choice should obviously be Freedom—a breaking of government's control over our economy.

Keeping The Faith

By TRUMAN TWILL

Mister Chairman and ladies and gents of this great convention,
also all my fellow Americans, my heart is full of gratitude for the opportunity I have been given to come before you at this time and sip from the same chalice touched by the lips of Abercrombie, Fitch, Lord and Taylor.

(My stomach also is full of the best T-bone I ever crushed between my uppers and lowers, to say nothing of my familiarity with the lips of Haig, Haig and the entire Wilkens family.)

As the great procession of American history winds from the sparkling plains into the rich, green foothills of the future, sending its outriders into the mountains which lie ahead, each of us must face
his task with the deepest humility.

(What do you suppose it is, this
"outriders," which sounds too
much like outriggers to suit me,
but on the other hand what would
a fellow be doing with outriggers
on the plains while heading for the hills?)

We ask Divine Guidance to set
our feet in the paths of probity.
We pray that the wolves of calumny
and the skunks of slander never will divert us from our fateful mission to bring succor and neighborliness to the faint of heart, the weary, the oppressed and our brother who has fallen by the wayside.

(If those brothers who were falling by the wayside next door until 5 a.m. have not made it by 3 a.m. tonight, it will become necessary to give them a strong push in the right direction. Anyway, the speech will be over and there will be nothing to lose.)

Mindful, as we must always be,
my friends, that the circles of science have rendered it possible to carry the deliverations of this great convention from Canada to the Gulf and from the Atlantic to the Pacific on the wings of electronic magic, nothing we do here, nothing
we can say here will hallow this—
that is, we must take care to lift up the hearts and hands of the millions who see in us the chosen implement of their destiny.

(Slow down, you fool, or you will trip over your tonsils. Another thing we must take care of is to keep those goons in the aisle seats
from looking like goons in aisle seats, even if it means hiring movie extras to make a better impression.)

Events have given us a rawndyvoo with destiny. We must keep it with eyes lifted to the stars and hands outstretched in supplication
to the founding fathers for the grace of their wisdom to descend
upon us.

(And with our fingers crossed lest someone like Tom Paine tune in on the deal and cut us off at the knees for thumbing the founding fathers in the eye when they weren't expecting it.)

We must keep the faith. We must vindicate our trusteeship of these rocks and rills. We must be hew-ers of wood and drawers of water.
We must pluck the forked lightning
from the sky and glean the fields.
We must stand resolutely in the path of the foul beasts of oppression, guarding our children from the gleaming fangs of tyrants. We must get ourselves elected, and we must turn the rascals out.

(Come off it, Baldy. The conventions are over for another four years. The chair has heard a motion to adjourn and has taken the hint. The televiewers have switched off their gawk boxes to catch up on sleep. There won't be a kitchen appliance or a better mousetrap sold via electronics for the next three days.)

Amen.

How Green Were The Conventions

The 'Coffee Hour' Goes To Church

Thousands of people have been coming back to church, in parishes of all denominations across the country, through an informal movement which has taken hold during the past three years.

"Churchgoing through fellowship," it might be called, if this were a planned campaign, but it isn't. Individual clergymen have come to bring people together over a cup of coffee, and in every case
the results have been similar: People whose church interest had been mild were stirred to active interest, and church attendance
has increased.

Fellowship servings have varied
with the parish and the problems.
In populous cities, a serving after Sunday services has brought strangers together and the parishes have grown more cohesive and active. In South Dakota, a Baptist Bible distributor covering an area of 4,000 square miles became an active fire buff, racing to alarms and spurring their interest in the church of their own faiths.

In a Hudson River suburb, New York-bound commuters were served coffee at the railroad station
by a Presbyterian clergyman and his congregation, and the same effect resulted. A new Episcopalian congregation in a suburb of Columbus, O., found fellowship
servings a big factor in building
an enthusiastic new membership.

CROWDED Washington perhaps was the first place where fellowship sessions helped strangers to feel at home as newcomers in church. Many parishes, particularly in the downtown section, had adopted the practice during war years to cater to visiting servicemen and lonely government workers. A few years ago
the coffee hour after Sunday morning and evening services—except on Communion Sundays—was revived by common desire at St.
John's Church at LaPayette Square.

Wives of Supreme Court justices and government girls stand side
by side as hostesses in the church which President Roosevelt used to attend, serving a beverage and cookies in the parish house after services.

Dr. Large feels that the warmth
of feeling created in those gatherings bears a large share of credit
in expanding the membership by 25 per cent in two seasons, and for
the equally impressive increase in Sunday attendance.

Another church which adopted
fellowship practices and won notable increases in membership is located in a new residential development outside Columbus, Ohio.
When St. Mark's Episcopal Church
was organized in midsummer, 1951, there was no pastor and no worship center. A progressive young clergyman, the Rev. Eldred Johnston, became rector the day before the enthusiastic young congregation took possession of a church building vacated by a Methodist Church which had built a new home for itself.

The rector perceived promptly that his congregation's task was not merely to welcome new residents—but to bind together a community composed entirely of newcomers. Vast new projects were bringing a population of strangers
to a sparsely settled suburban area.
The rector's solution emphasized
the fellowship servings.

GROWTH OF A congregation in an
old, established community was
also achieved by a pastor's emphasis on fellowship in the Hudson River village of Haverstraw, a score of miles north of New York City on the opposite bank of the river.

When the Rev. Harold J. Quigley received his call to the 110-

services.
"It makes the church into a family," one staff member commented, as the barriers of loneliness dropped among strangers present.

At another St. John's, in Georgetown, which soon followed suit, the Rev. William Sharp explained:
"We fulfill the hope of getting newcomers acquainted quickly.
This is a role churches should perform in a city with a transient population."

"People don't rely on formal introductions to meet one another,"
Dr. Thomas A. Stone of National Presbyterian Church pointed out,
when a coffee hour after services replaced the traditional minister's practice of greeting worshippers at the door as they left. "We can meet more parishioners in partaking of fellowship than we can as the group files through a doorway to the street."

IN NEW YORK churches have a problem not unlike those of the nation's capital—members of the same congregation do not know
each other, and lost the added incentive that friendships create for church activity and regular attendance.

When Dr. John Ellis Large was called as pastor of the historic Church of the Heavenly Rest, just off Fifth Avenue, two years ago,
he quickly noted that the parish was different from the closely-knit community congregation he had known as pastor of St. Andrew's Episcopal Church in Wilmington, Del.

For generations, the church had been located at Fifth Avenue and 45th Street, once New York's fashionable residential center and today a business district. Now two miles farther up the famous avenue, the church today draws two-fifths of its attendance from among families living in the city's suburbs. Even the members from within the neighborhood were strangers to each other.

Within a few months, the young,
progressive pastor had a solution.
A committee took charge of a fellowship coffee service in the church auditorium after Sunday
services.

Dr. Large feels that the warmth
of feeling created in those gatherings bears a large share of credit
in expanding the membership by 25 per cent in two seasons, and for
the equally impressive increase in Sunday attendance.

Another church which adopted

table increases in membership is

velopment outside Columbus, Ohio.

GROWTH OF A congregation in an
old, established community was
also achieved by a pastor's emphasis on fellowship in the Hudson
River village of Haverstraw, a
score of miles north of New York
City on the opposite bank of the
river.

When the Rev. Harold J. Quig-
ley received his call to the 110-

year-Central Presbyterian Church,
he found an elderly congregation
whose average Sunday attendance was 75 persons. Tall, earnest, and relatively youthful, the pastor
set to work with all the ingenuity developed in a tour of duty as director of special events for the Protestant Radio Commission.

He roamed the streets of sleepy
old Haverstraw with a kerosene lantern, "looking for the absentees." The conservative community was astonished as he strolled into stores, banks and homes. A jukebox in the church gymnasium, Friday night roller-skating in the basement, and an exhibition of paintings brought social and church life together for all ages.

But the event that captured the eye of most of the community—
and a sleepy eye it was—came on the morning when commuters
rushing for the 6:41 found the pastor on hand with an electric coffee urn and parish volunteers to serve a steaming cupful.

A portable phonograph played religious music. A sign bore the message: "Go to church and take someone with you—you'll be happier for it." As ten members of the congregation helped serve the morning coffee at the station—
some working until their own, later trains rolled in—the pastor emphasized that his appeal was for all to go to the church of their own faith,
but to attend more regularly.

To Dr. G. Pitt Beers of the American Baptist Home Mission Society, the current increase in fellowship activities is not a new story—but the oldest of the church.
Early in the Christian era, he points out, the church put great store in the service of eating together and fellowship. In his country, the church supper has been a tradition, and the distances that pioneers traveled for worship in the days of sparse settlements encourage that practice.

Olympic Friendships

The runners, the leapers and the heavers of the world are foregathered at Helsinki, Finland, to contest for honors in the 15th Olympic Games, and that's a good thing.
It's a good thing these days when people, for whatever reason, can get together from all corners of the world in an atmosphere approaching friendliness.

That the Olympics competition
has a soothing effect on the jangled nerves of the world cannot be denied. Where, but at the Olympics, would you find a Russian embracing an American in a joyful hug?

When the American, Bob Richards, set a new Olympic pole-vault record the other day (14 feet, 11.14 inches), who should enfold
him in a congratulatory bear hug
but the Russian vaulter, Viktor Knezev?

Another nice thing about the Olympics is that no one nation
"wins." True, some nations will amass more points than others,
but as far as official computations go, points are awarded only to individuals, whatever country
they come from. That kind of a system makes further for easing tension and promoting amiability.
If American athletes can make friends for us at the Olympics,
why can't more athletes make more friends in competition other than Olympic?

The Cleveland Indians and the Brooklyn Dodgers have announced their intention of making a barnstorming trip around the world this fall. Let's have more of this athletic diplomacy.

It is believed that American Indians used the crimson juice of the bloodroot for dyeing their garments and handwork and also used it for war paint.

Convention Review

Deductions after two weeks of telecast conventions: a political convention is the only show
on earth that bores the principals and the supporting cast. . . . Nothing has gone back so far as oratory. . . . We had our new device, the electric "yawn-o-meter" in service this week at Chicago. . . . It's a remarkable instrument indicating the sleepiness provoked by most political speakers. . . . It showed that with a couple of exceptions the audience begins snoring within two minutes of the moment when the orators open their mouths. . . . In fact, it was such a relief to see and hear in Adlai Stevenson an intelligent, well-poised, nonshouting speaker with a sense of humor and a regard for brevity, that it made him a standout. . . . It's a long time since a political convention has flushed a politician who was nonvindictive, nonbelligerent and nongaseous. . . . Stevenson, displaying the rare virtues of poise, good humor and restraint,
is a sensation of the last quarter century.

LES BIFFLE handed every delegate a warning card which said "140,000,000 eyes are watching you," but he was dead wrong. . . . The tuner-outers got their biggest workout in history. . . . There were spots of high drama and good video entertainment, but as a whole a convention is no video fan's delight. . . . "I Love Lucy" and the Arthur Godfrey video hour maintained a higher video rating and we are going to the polls in November to vote for a Ball & Arnez ticket. . . . (Or maybe Godfrey & Parker). . . . Our own poll of 70,000,000 video fans shows that 69,999,218 think Groucho Marx could have stamped either convention at Chicago, with or without larger jackpots. . . . (The more
we follow political conventions the clearer it becomes why old-time vaudeville lasted so long.)

India Edwards blasted the convention for its impoliteness to speakers. . . . "You were extremely rude this afternoon to three of the finest women in this country," she declared firmly,
"and the radio and video audience were shocked by your behavior." . . . Paul Dever's oratorical style may wow 'em in Massachusetts,
but it gave millions of people their first good sleep in months via Chicago.

Premier Mossadegh, back in power after a 24-hour retirement, has been the first man to demonstrate the power of Johnnie Ray's "Cry" technique in keeping public office. . . . There were moments when the Chicago convention looked like a summer picnic of the Roosevelt family. . . . The laugh of the week was the spectacle of leading Democratic liberals, famed for their lukewarmness toward loyalty tests at Washington, trying to make them compulsory in southern politics. . . . President Truman has overruled a tariff on garlic, thus showing his determination to keep America strong. . . . We may, one day, have a woman Vice President,
but it is the consensus of video fans that no convention will produce one until there is a big improvement in shapes and general glamour.

IT SURPRISES us that at the Olympics the Russians haven't produced a pole vaulter who uses the wrong end of the stick. . . . J. S.
Backer, a Chicago traffic expert, says that the dumbest drivers make the safest ones. . . . We trust that the next time he is chased up a tree
by a cockeyed driver he has the comfort of knowing the driver had a low I.Q. . . . In a few weeks the New York Stock Exchange extends its closing hour from 3 to 3:30. . . . This will not only break a tradition of 75 years but cause
a big break in the habits of thousands of Wall Streeters. . . . It will require a complete re-timing of the financial world cocktail hour and highball-before-train-time schedule. . . . For a couple of generations countless Wall Streeters
have become accustomed to a 3 p.m. bell, 3:15
to 3:30 hat grabbing and taxi or subway dash
and an arrival at Grand Central or Penn Station cafes for a little snifter after a hectic day. . . .
A good time allowance for this has been necessary. (You know how it is, men) Then the 8:05
for the country could be caught, barring unanticipated hurdles. . . . But now the little woman who had her troubles keeping dinner warm
is going to be hard hit.

ventions until the last hour, and then gave up,

Miss Carol Jane Grindle Wed To Sgt. Robert C. Roessler

Miss Carol Jane Grindle chose her sorority "big sister," Miss Judy Van Nostran of Canton, to be one of her bridesmaids when she became the bride of Marine Sgt. Robert Charles Roessler at Robbins Memorial Methodist Church, Washingtonville, at 3:30 p.m. Sunday.

Rev. Kenneth E. Birney of Cortland, O., former Robbins Church pastor, performed the double-ring ceremony against a background of two candelabra holding seven candles each, gladioli and fern. The altar held a large basket of shrimp gladioli and the altar rail was banked with green ferns.

The bride, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Curtis Grindle of Main St., Washingtonville, was given in marriage by her father. The groom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Keith Roessler of Hawley Ave., Salem.

The soloist, Miss DeErla Smith of Leetonia, was accompanied by Mrs. Delbert Kundle of Columbiana. Mrs. Kundle also played the traditional wedding music beginning at 3 p.m.

Attire of Bride
The bride was lovely in her ballerina-length gown of white satin and tulle. The yoke was patterned of illusion, setting off the portrait neckline which was formed by iridescent sequins. Long fitted sleeves formed a point over the bride's hands. Carrying out the same theme, the bodice of the gown came to a point in front where it joined the full billowing tulle skirt appliqued with satin and sequins to match the neckline.

The bride's fingertip veil of tulle was held in place by a satin skull cap with a small brim and embroidered with seed pearls and iridescent sequins. She carried a bouquet of white gardenias and narcissuses.

Mrs. Clarence Votaw of Greenford, the matron of honor, wore a nymph green gown of ballerina length. The gown was of nylon tulle with shirred, fitted bodice and balloon sleeves. The Spencerian jacket was of tulle. She wore green linen opera pumps and carried a colonial bouquet of harmonizing gladioli.

Bridal Party
Mrs. James R. Grindle of Oswego, N.Y., sister-in-law of the bride, was the other bridesmaid who accompanied Miss Van Nostran. Both bridesmaids, Miss Van Nostran and Mrs. Grindle, wore shrimp gowns with shirred bodice, balloon sleeves and Spencerian jackets identical in style to the gown worn by Mrs. Votaw. Their opera pumps were of shrimp linen. They carried colonial bouquets of harmonizing gladioli.

Flower girl was Judy McKibbin daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. E. McKibbin of Salem. She was attired in a ballerina-length gown of white organdy trimmed with yellow rosebuds on the sleeves and skirt. She wore a white bonnet trimmed in yellow.

Mrs. Robert Roessler

The ring bearer was the bride's nephew, Dean Richards, son of Mr. and Mrs. Melvin Richards of Canfield. He wore a white jacket, dark trousers and maroon bow tie.

Men Dressed Alike
Sgt. Roessler chose Daniel E. Smith of Salem as his best man. Robert Dressel and James Lippitt of Salem were ushers. They all wore white jackets, dark trousers and maroon bow ties.

The attendants were remembered with gifts at the rehearsal party Friday evening at the Grindle residence, when Mr. and Mrs. Keith Roessler were hosts.

For her daughter's wedding, Mrs. Curtis Grindle wore a navy V-neck dress with navy and cream accessories. Her corsage was of yellow roses.

For her son's wedding, Mrs. Roessler wore a pink linen dress with navy accessories. Her corsage was of deeper pink roses.

The church parlor was decorated with white daisies for the reception which was attended by 200 persons. The table was set with a white linen tablecloth.

Mrs. Don Weikart cut the four-tiered wedding cake which was topped with miniature bride and groom. Assisting her were Mrs. Don Warner, Mrs. William Craig, Miss Mary Howell of Youngstown, who was Carol's roommate at Mount Union College, and members of the Busy Bee Class of M.E. Church.

Both Attended College
Guests were from Rochester, Pa., Oswego, N.Y., Canton, Sebring, Alliance, Minerva, Youngstown, East Palestine, Cuyahoga Falls, Lisbon, Salem, Leetonia and Washingtonville.

The bride, a graduate of Leetonia High School, attended Mount Union College, where she was a pledge of Alpha Xi Delta Sorority. The groom is a graduate of Salem High School, attended Ohio University, Athens, and Mount Union College. He is a member of Sigma Nu Fraternity.

After a tour of the eastern states and Canada, the bride and groom will make their home at Cherry Point, N.C., where Sgt. Roessler will be stationed.

For traveling the bride wore a beige two-piece dress with kelly green accessories, and a corsage of yellow roses.

"Find the meeting place" made the Friday evening session of the Willing Workers Class of the Millville Friendly Community Church unusual entertainment.

The community service contest was discussed.

Following the business meeting Walter Everett of Salem showed pictures and gave an interesting talk on his trip to Central America. A vocal selection "Dear Hearts and Gentle People" was sung by Alpheus, Mervin, Hazel and Bonita Bartholow.

The juvenile members discussed their safety posters which are to be finished for the next meeting, August 13th. The lecturer, Nancy Birk, had the following program: opening son "Jesus Bids Us Shine."

The roll call was answered by naming a favorite nursery rhyme. A poem "Gardens" was read by Kathryn Bailey. A game of "Tic, Tac, Toe" was conducted by Mrs. Starkie, juvenile matron. Closing song was "Old Black Joe."

The next meeting of Mt. Nebo Grange will be August 13th in charge of the Home Economics Committee.

Mrs. Robert Conroy, chairman, Mrs. G. W. McKee and Mrs. E. S. Huffman are planning the covered picnic scheduled for members of the Salem Garden Club Monday, Aug. 4, in the open pavilion at Centennial Park. This is the final meeting before the Garden Show Aug. 14.

WINTER COTTONS are a coming thing in this Midwestern city that has a definite southern flavor. Defined, the term means simply that these are new dark cottons, in new weights, that carry on from summer into fall.

But even more this year, the phrase will be used to cover cottons actually worn in winter, even though this is looking very far ahead. In St. Louis, they're using the corded cottons traditionally worn by railroad workmen for fall dresses that combine the sturdiness of wool with the lightweight of cotton.

The gray and black corded cotton by Minx Modes (left) is classic in feeling, has bracelet-length sleeves and a huge taffeta pussy-cat bow at the neckline.

The coat dress (right) is the very same fabric in rust-and-brown, given a velvet collar and belt.

Free Booklet Tells How Deaf Hear Again With Startling Clarity, Ease

CHICAGO (Special)—New hope for the 15 million persons in the United States who are hard of hearing was voiced by a noted Chicago acoustical scientist.

He reported that through the miracle of modern electronics it is now possible to overcome deafness even if the loss is severe.

He demonstrated how the deaf can hear again with a clarity and ease they never dreamed possible. According to this electronic engineer, Mr. Sam Posen of Belmont, "the longer a hearing loss is neglected, the harder it is to recapture certain speech sounds and understand them."

To acquaint the hard of hearing readers of this paper with what may be done to help the deaf hear again with miraculous clarity, full authoritative details about deafness and how to overcome it are described in an informative, new, illustrated booklet, which will be sent in a plain wrapper without any cost or obligation.

To obtain your free copy, simply send your request to: Electronic Research Director, Dept. 7800 Belmont Hearing Aid Co., 1450 W. 19th St., Chicago 8, Ill. A postcard will do.

Indians Win Doubleheader From Nats, Gain On Yankees

Easter's Homer Wins 2nd Contest

Doby Clouts 20th Round Tripper

CLEVELAND (AP)—One swish of Luke Easter's bat put the Cleveland Indians back in the American League pennant scrap.

The big first baseman belted a 430-foot homer over the right field fence with two men on base in the eighth inning to bring the Tribe a 3-2 victory in Sunday's nightcap after Cleveland beat Washington in the opener 3-1.

The two-game sweep, evening Cleveland's season record against the troublesome Nats at 9-9, lifted the Tribe back into second place, a half game ahead of the Boston Red Sox, who split a twin bill in St. Louis.

Even more important, it enabled Cleveland to gain another game on the New York Yankees, who divided two in Detroit. The Indians have caught up four games on the Nats in their last five and now are only 3½ back of the world champions.

Walt Masterson had a five-hit shutout going into the eighth. Al Rosen singled and Harry Simpson walked with one away, then Easter connected for his 13th homer of the season.

Easter's blast won Steve Gromek credit for the victory. Gromek relieved Mike Garcia who yielded seven hits in seven innings.

A walk and singles by Mickey Vernon and Floyd Baker enabled Washington to tally against Garcia in the second, and a double by Jim Busby and Pete Runnels' single added another marker for the visitors in the third.

The first game was Bob Lemon's third straight victory and brought his record to 11 won, eight lost.

Eddie Yost hit his seventh homer of the season in the third to tie the score at 1-1, but Lemon buckled down to goose-egg the Nats the rest of the way on four scattered singles.

Lemon had to be good, because Chick Marrero gave the Tribe only five hits. But three of the hits off the stubby Cuban righthander were for extra bases, and each figured in scoring a run.

Bob Avila, tripled and scored on shortstop Runnels' wild relay to third in the first inning.

Larry Doby homered over the right field fence with two out in the third for what proved the winning run. It was Doby's 20th homer.

The final Tribe run of the first game came in the fifth. Doby walked and scored on Al Rosen's double when left fielder Gil Coan fumbled.

Left fielder Dale Mitchell missed both games because of a pulled thigh muscle, but will be ready for the three-game Boston series opening Tuesday night.

Japan Swimmers Break Record

27 Olympic Marks Receive Breaking

HELSINKI (AP)—Japan's swimmers, who performed so sensationally in the 1936 Olympic games, resumed their place in the Olympic spotlight today, taking over the record-breaking roles that American track and field stars relinquished.

The Japanese 800-meter freestyle team smashed the third Olympic swimming record in three days of competition in the Olympic pool by winning its qualifying heat in eight minutes, 42.1 seconds. This broke the mark of 8:46 established by the United States team in 1948 and carried out the pattern of record-breaking that has marked every day of the 1952 Olympic games.

The youthful Japanese team was composed of Yoshihiro Hamaguchi, Hiroshi Suzuki, Toru Goto and Teigiro Tanikawa.

The United States team also qualified comfortably for tomorrow's finals along with Sweden, Hungary, South Africa, Argentina, France and Great Britain.

Other Olympic swimming records broken so far are the men's 100 meters free style, in which Clark Scholes of Highland Park, Mich., was timed at 57.1 seconds in a heat en route in winning the first tank championship for America, and the women's 200 meters breast stroke. Two Hungarian women, Eva Szekely and Eva Novak, have turned in Olympic record times of 2:54 in trials. The final is scheduled tomorrow.

Otherwise it was a quiet morning on the Olympic front.

Brazil's basketball team trounced Chile in the first game of the semi-final round-robin competition.

American fencer Edward Vebell of New York was eliminated in the semi-final round of men's individual competition.

In canoeing, Michael Budrock of New York and John Eiseaman of Silver Springs, Md., both failed to qualify in the preliminary heats of the 1,000 meters kayak race.

Track and field competition—always the showpiece of the Olympic games—ended a record-breaking run yesterday. Twenty-seven new Olympic marks were stamped into the record books. Nine world records were beaten.

America's track and field forces won 14 gold medals in the men's division—the most since the present program was established—and one in the women's section.

The women's gold medal was a complete surprise. It was earned yesterday by four fleet-footed girls—Mae Faggs, Barbara Jones, Janet Morreau and Catherine Hardy. They ran the 400 meter relay as if the Frankenstein monster was chasing them. They set an Olympic record and bettered the world record in the process.

May Drop Feller From 'Big Four'

CLEVELAND (AP)—Cleveland Manager Al Lopez is seriously considering dropping Bob Feller from his Big Four, the Cleveland News said today.

If he does, said the News, his replacement will be Steve Gromek. Feller, one of the greatest stars who ever wore an Indian uniform, never has been anything but a starting pitcher—even in his worst slumps.

The News quoted Lopez as saying only: "I'm thinking about it. It all depends on developments within the next few days."

Cleveland's present Big Four consists of Feller, Early Wynn, Bob Lemon and Mike Garcia. The News story, by Hal Lebovitz, continued:

"Lopez is reluctant to demote Feller, who has been a backbone of the Big Four ever since he put on a Cleveland uniform. But Bob has been wild lately, while Gromek remains old reliable."

Merchants Cop 17th, Down E. Liverpool, 7-6

Avenge Loss Of Wednesday To Florists

Five runs in the bottom of the seventh inning allowed the Salem Merchants to grab their 17th Columbiana County League victory yesterday when they topped the East Liverpool Riverview Florists at Centennial Park, 7-6.

The triumph avenged the loss taken earlier in the week at Patterson Field in East Liverpool when the Florists rallied for a 4-2 win.

The East Liverpool nine started things off in the third inning after the teams went scoreless in the first two frames. The Florists managed to score three runs off Merchant Pitcher Dave Kachner.

However, the locals came through with a run in the bottom of the fourth frame but remained behind, 3-1. Dick Wyss replaced Kachner in the seventh frame and East Liverpool greeted him with a two-run outburst.

Five runs in the bottom of the seventh changed things though as the Merchants were hitting the ball. Don Miller led off the inning with a triple, Claire Weingart doubled, Kirby Laughlin singled and Bob Miller walked. That was the end for East Liverpool's twirler Glenn. Bob Moore replaced him and Dempsey Balsey greeted him with a base hit as did Bob Loudon.

This put the locals in front, 6-5. East Liverpool deadlocked the score in the top of the ninth inning with a single and double but the Merchants won the tilt in the bottom of the inning. Balsey reached first on an error as did Loudon, allowing Balsey to go to second base. Pat Mancuso then drilled a base hit into center and Balsey scored the deciding marker. Final score: Merchants 6, Florists 6.

Bob Miller managed the team during the game, since Manager Chester Brautigam is out of town. Wyss tallied his fourth victory of the season against a single loss.

The victory almost clinched the regular season title for the locals with but four games remaining and four games out in front.

The Merchants will trek to Negley Wednesday night for a 6:30 game. Players are asked to meet at 5 p.m. at the Memorial Building to make the trip.

Marciano Rated 2-1 Favorite

Meets Matthews Tonight In New York

NEW YORK (AP)—Sluggish Rocky Marciano and Boxer Harry Matthews risk their careers in one daring gamble tonight for a September shot at the world's heavyweight title. Marciano is a 2 to 1 favorite.

Scouting from a ringside pew at Yankee Stadium will be Jersey Joe Walcott, the 38-year-old champ, who has agreed to meet the winner in the fall.

Forecasts of fair, warm weather were counted on to bring a last minute surge to the box office. The International Boxing Club expects to draw over 25,000 fans and $250,000 for the show.

There will be no radio, television or theater television of this 10-round elimination bout, scheduled for 9:00 p.m. (EST). In the event of rain, it will be pushed back to Tuesday night as a conflict with a baseball game has been cleared up by a mutual agreement.

For Marciano, unbeaten in 41 pro fights, and Matthews, who hasn't lost in 70 starts since 1943, this will be the real crossroads. After tonight, it's on toward the title or back to the clubs in Providence or Omaha.

Marciano, a swarthy 27-year-old from the shoetown of Brockton, Mass., is a crumpling puncher who fights out of a crouch. A left hook to the body and a long overhand right to the head are his best weapons. Rough and hard to handle, he is built like a wrestler with strong, solid legs and short brawny arms.

Matthews, 29, is a classic stylist with 105 pro fights. A fine boxer with long arms and quick hands, he is a fine counter puncher specializing in short sharp jolts to the body. The pride of the Great Northwest and his home town of Seattle, Matthews soared toward the top under the guidance of manager Jack Hurley. In one New York appearance against Irish Bob Murphy, Matthews made a lasting impression.

The price fluctuated a bit from 2 to 1 up as far as 13 to 5 over the weekend but is due to steady around 2 to 1.

How To Make Balky Power Mowers Behave

It seems that almost everyone who has ever owned a gasoline-powered lawn mower has at some time suppressed an urge to give it full throttle and let the infernal machine run itself to pieces—if it would run at all.

For power lawn mowers—like their pilots—seem subject to fits of temperament. Without apparent reason they balk or quit, usually at crucial moments.

Here are some power lawn mower problems and simple solutions:

ENGINE WON'T START. There could be three trouble spots: in the carburetor, ignition system, or in the engine itself.

If the mower hasn't been in use for several months, the carburetor has probably become gummed up and isn't feeding gasoline.

Move the choke backward and forward while trying to start the engine. Thoroughly clean the carburetor, if necessary.

Next, check the ignition system by removing the spark plug wire at the plug and hold the tip about 1/8-inch from the cylinder head while cranking the engine. If a spark jumps the gap, the system is probably all right. If there is no spark, the spark plug may be broken or gone bad. A broken plug will not fire properly, even though there may still be a spark.

If the spark plug's porcelain is broken, replace the plug.

Accumulations of gum and carbon may have caused the plug to foul. Clean the electrodes at the base of the plug, readjust the gap between electrodes, and try again.

When all this is to no avail, you can be almost certain the trouble is in the engine itself. Such conditions as loss of engine compression, sticking or broken valves, worn pistons, bearings or cylinder walls all demand overhaul by an expert.

Engine starts, but dies slowly. This usually happens after the engine has been running only a few minutes and is probably caused by a clogged gas line or carburetor screen, if the fuel tank still has gasoline in it.

DRAIN GAS from the tank and disconnect gas line at the carburetor. With air under pressure at the fuel tank fill opening, try to blow obstructions, if any, from the gas line.

If the gas line is not clogged, remove carburetor; check screen and clean it if necessary. Blow out carburetor with air under pressure.

Engine runs normally, but stops suddenly. Chances are an ignition failure is at fault. Make ignition test previously described. Otherwise, the fault is in the engine, which should be checked by a repairman.

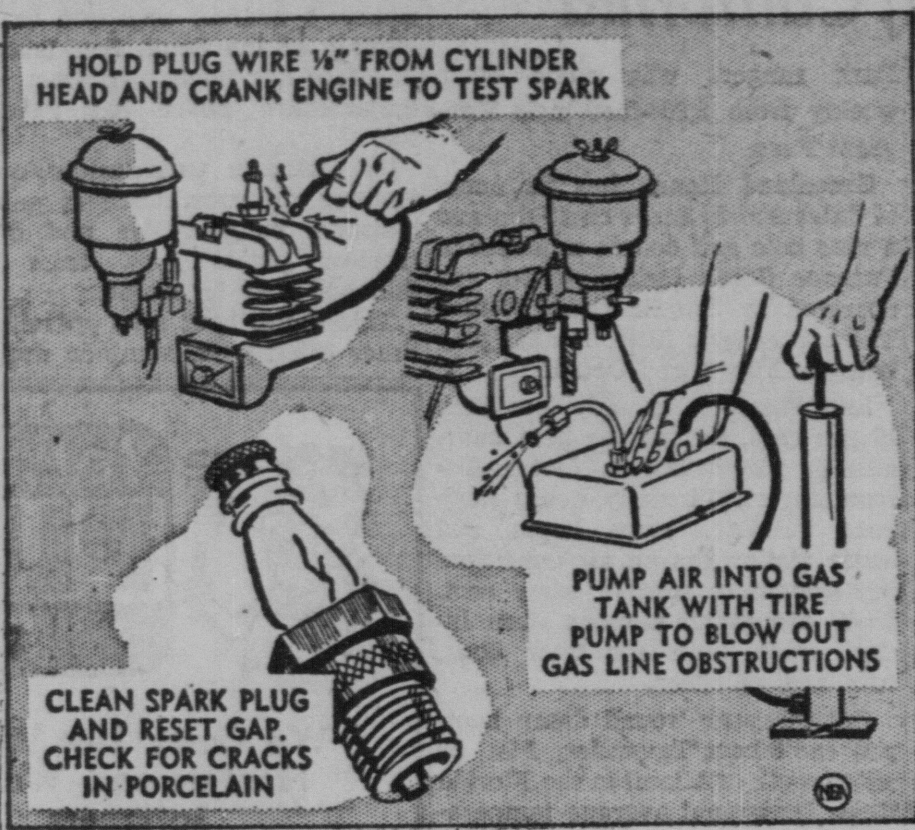

Engine idles, but quits when accelerated. This occurs when the engine is cold and choked, or when it is hot and fully choked. Or a partially clogged fuel line may be allowing only enough gasoline through the line to feed the engine at low speeds. Be sure to open the choke of cold engine and close it after it warms up.

Engine runs slowly, lacks power. This condition indicates a need to consult a repairman, for it may mean a partially clogged gas line, use of worn gasoline, worn engine parts, etc.

By careful maintenance some of these problems can be avoided; others can't be anticipated. Here's wishing you luck.

Pastel Roofing Newest Idea In Home Color

Roof shingles in soft pastel colors are the most recent advance in the trend toward making home exteriors more beautiful.

These new pastels aid in imaginative decoration of the outside of a house. They extend the ways in which color can be used to make a home more expressive of the group personality of the family that occupies it.

Among the most popular pastels are red, green, and blue—colors that have been leaders among the more conventional hues.

Both ranges of color are supplied in asphalt shingles, the kind of roofing material used on four-fifths of all the new houses being built.

Asphalt shingle pastels are subtle and neutral. They are grayed very slightly when the pigments are mixed. This adds body and strength. There is no trace of weakness or "bon-bon" delicacy in the color.

Pastel roofing is well suited to the low, one-story house—popularly called "ranch house"—that is typical of contemporary, small home architecture.

Although any pitched roof is an important factor in the appearance of the house it covers, with a small home the visual impact of the roof increases.

A low roof near to the ground is close to the direct line of vision of an observer. It is so prominent that its appearance plans a determining part in the appearance of the entire dwelling. No one who looks at the house can miss noticing the roof.

Light colors have the psychological effect of creating an illusion of greater size. If all of the exterior of a small house is styled in light colors, the house will seem to be larger than it really is. Light-colored asphalt shingles on a roof tend to draw the eye upward, making the house appear taller.

Another reason behind the liking for pastel colors is that the informality of today's architecture encourages the home-owner to decorate the exterior of his house in keeping with his individual taste. Color preferences thus are freely expressed, and it is to satisfy expanded color desires that colored building materials—of which pastel asphalt roofing is the newest—have been developed.

Four Building Permits Issued To Residents

Four building permits were issued to Salem residents during the past week by Mayor Harry M. Vincent. They were issued to:

Paul V. Christopher, 1438 Orchard Ave., building a one-car garage costing approximately $800.

S. E. Eskay, building a brick veneer five-room and bath ranch type house at 585 E. Eighth St., at an estimated $7,000 cost.

Richard Caldwell, building a five-room and bath house at 1204 N. Ellsworth Ave., costing approximately $10,000.

Mrs. R. W. Broomall, 1245 N. Ellsworth Ave., general alterations to convert house to apartments, costing approximately $1,700.

Quizzing The Gardener

Q—When should established clumps of Bearded Iris be dug up, divided and replanted?

A—Iris should be dug up and replanted soon after flowering to insure root growth before winter.

Q—What should one do to get rid of aphids on nasturtiums?

A—The only cure for aphids is to spray with a nicotine-sulfate (Black Leaf 40) soapy water solution. It also helps to cut off the older leaves that are most infested.

Q—What are good evergreen shrubs to plant about a home which receives little sunshine?

A—Japanese Yew and Japanese Holly are probably the best all-around shrubs for this purpose, although Mountain Laurel, Leucothoe, Mahonia, Pieris and Phododendrons will also grow in the shade.

Q—Small green insects, that hop when disturbed, are infesting our potato foliage. What are they and what should we do?

A—The insects are undoubtedly Leafhoppers and they damage the leaves by sucking the sap. Spray or dust when you first notice the insects and repeat at ten day intervals as long as the plants are green. A good commercial potato dust includes DDT for insects and fixed copper for diseases.

How To Fix It

Q—What can be done to prevent bureau drawers from being affected by atmospheric conditions that cause them to stick?

A—Try coating them inside and out with shellac.

Many Old Houses Can Be Remodeled

If people who need houses had X-ray eyes, their problem wouldn't be so great.

Tens of thousands of neglected old buildings are scattered throughout the country. Externally, they are hardly worth a second glance, but in many cases a shoddy exterior conceals a solid foundation and strong framework—an excellent core around which to build a new shell for considerably less than the cost of a completely new home.

In looking for an old house with remodeling possibilities, the trick, of course, is to be able to detect what lies under the surface. There's no magic way to do this. It takes a lot of inquisitive poking around among joists, sills, rafters and all the other hidden structural parts.

The fact that a thorough job of remodeling can bring happy results is illustrated by the transformation of an old house near Dallas, Texas. Hundreds of home-seekers probably passed it by before it was bought by a banker with a good eye for a profitable investment in comfortable living.

THE FIRST STEP was to strip the house down to its skeleton and make necessary minor repairs to the framing members. The old, dried out, splintered roofing was in such poor condition that it had to be torn off.

In selecting new roofing and siding, the owners insisted on having materials that would not be fire hazards. The house is four miles from the nearest fire department and a well is its only source of water.

A fire-resistant roof—which asphalt shingles provided for the Texas house—is particularly important. Houses in the country are frequently exposed to sparks from chimneys, outdoor trash fires, and brush and field fires. The roof is a natural target for flying sparks.

The interior of the Texas home also was completely reconditioned. All window and door frames

"MOVINGEST" PEOPLE

Census figures show Americans are about the "movingest" people in the world. About one out of every five changed residences every year between April 1947, and the spring of 1950. Most merely changed homes to nearby areas, but several million annually pulled up stakes and moved from one state to another.

For seven years after 1940, a total of 70 million persons—almost half the population then—resettled in different homes or parts of the country.

You Can Get Rid Of Pesky Japanese Beetles

By HENRY PREE

Many home gardeners evidence little interest in an insect or disease until it strikes home. At present the chief annoyance is the Japanese beetle, a chewing insect which has been described and discussed many times by this gardener.

Having once been seen, the Japanese beetle is not difficult to recognize. It is about three-eighths of an inch long and its body is a dark, shiny, metallic green, except for the wing covers, which are a metallic copper or bronze color. A characteristic is found in two white tufts of short hairs which appear at the end of the body. On each side, directly in front of these hairy tufts, are four additional tufts of white hair.

Japanese beetles have a voracious appetite and are not very particular about what they feed upon. They congregate in large numbers and do a great amount of damage in a short time. The beetles fly readily and may make extensive flights on hot, sultry days.

THE INSECTS go through the usual life cycle. The beetles usually appear in late June and become very prevalent in July or August. They sometimes persist into cold weather but the eggs are laid in the soil in July and August. These eggs hatch into white grubs in 10 days and the grubs usually begin feeding on the fine roots of grasses and weeds.

They burrow into the soil to a depth of almost a foot in late Autumn and hibernate for the winter. When the soil gets warm in the spring, the grubs again begin feeding. They change into the pupal stage in May or June and soon are transformed into adult beetles.

Lawns can be made practically immune to injury by the grubs by applying DDT or chlordane. These materials can be applied at any time the ground is not frozen.

DDT SHOULD BE applied to the ground at the rate 1.2 pounds of a 50 per cent DDT powder to each 1000 square feet of lawn area. To simplify the distribution and to obtain uniform coverage, the material can be mixed with about 20 pounds of sand or milorganite and broadcast by hand or with a fertilizer spreader.

When DDT is applied as a spray it should be used at the rate of two ounces of 50 per cent wettable powder in three gallons of water for each 100 square feet of surface area. In small areas the treatment can be made with a sprinkling can. A single treatment of DDT should remain effective for a least five years.

DDT IS THE MOST EFFECTIVE INSECTICIDE

THE JAPANESE BEETLE is three-eighths of an inch long, mostly green in color, allergic to DDT.

If a 40 or 50 per cent chlordane powder is used, it should be applied at the rate of 10 ounces to each 100 square feet. If the material is applied as a spray, 10 ounces of the 40 per cent wettable chlordane should be mixed with 25 gallons of water for treating each 1000 square feet of area. Chlordane has given excellent control of the grubs for four years.

The foliage, fruit and bloom of plants can be protected against the ravages of the adult by applying an insecticide which is most suitable for the different situations.

DDT is the most effective insecticide for the control of the beetles. This material is sold in many forms for several different purposes, but the best results have been obtained when the 50 per cent wettable powder has been used. The spray is made up with two tablespoons per gallon of water, or 1/2 cup of DDT to five gallons of water.

Although DDT is very effective for killing the beetles, it should not be used on small fruit trees until after the fruit has been picked or on other fruit later than two or three weeks before picking.

Both poisons can be dangerous if used on vegetables, so for safety's sake use rotenone dust in the vegetable garden.

AGAINST PUBLIC HOUSING
Voters in three U.S. cities—Columbia, Mo., Akron, Ohio and Cleburne, Tex.—recently turned down public housing by margins of about two to one. The Toledo, Ohio City Council repealed an ordinance authorizing public housing there, adding a fourth defeat for subsidized public housing.

Father Slays Wife, 4 Young Children

BRIDGEPORT, Wash. (AP)—Four small children and their young mother were slain as they prepared to leave for church services Sunday and police arrested the father, who admitted killing his family because "the minister said God is a square shooter."

Held in connection with the multiple slaying that left the modest family home on the outskirts of this North Central Washington community a bloody shambles was Matthias Swanson, 27, a laborer. Dead were his 25-year-old wife, Joyce, and the couple's four young children. Some had been shot, the others' throats had been slashed. Summer Heat Here Nothing Like Cow Creek, California

By The Associated Press
If this summer's steam-bath weather has left you feeling like a broiled lobster, here's a vacation travel tip:

Steer clear of Cow Creek, in Death Valley, Calif. It's the nation's hottest spot. Nobody lives at Cow Creek, a weather station 152 feet below sea level. But at Greenland Ranch in the heart of Death Valley, only 20 miles away, a nine-man crew of Pacific Coast Borax Company employees work the year round.

Charles A. Scholl, crew superintendent recalls that last summer's high was only 126 degrees. He remembers it hit 132 in 1931.

Cow Creek's average daytime high in July last year was 117 degrees. It cooled off to an average of 89 at night and the overall average for the month was 103.5. The readings are taken by National Park rangers who come down weekly from 2,300-foot high Emigrant Pass.

Greenland Ranch has 32 acres of dates and 20 acres of alfalfa and a nine hole golf course adjacent to Furnace Creek Inn, a winter spa operated by Pacific Coast Borax.

The course gets little, if any, play between May 1 and Oct. 15.

Low humidity, usually less than 10 per cent, makes the heat bearable on the California-Nevada-Arizona desert. Virtually every business building, store home and house trailer has an air conditioning system or unit of some sort. Some thoughtful persons even install small units for their dogs, cats and chickens.

But for year round damp heat, you can't beat Tavernier, Fla., 50 miles south of Miami in the Florida Keys. Its annual average temperature of 77.2 is the highest in the nation.

Tavernier, with a population of 500, probably is the Northern Hemisphere's nearest approach to the climate of the South Sea Islands. The city has never had frost, the temperature never has reached 100.

Its residents wear mid-summer clothing all year. Coconut palms, hibiscus, bougainvillea and other tropical plants grow from the thin soil and limestone.

This damp heat also prevails at times during the summer months along the Gulf Coast and as far up the Atlantic Coast as Wilmington, N. C. It's at these times that the steaming residents will tell you: "It isn't the heat as much as the humidity."

In selecting insulation material for a house, determine in advance that it will not form a fire hazard, will not absorb moisture and get soggy, will not attract insects and mice and will not deteriorate or settle.

Red Spiders Are Causing Heavy Damage To Evergreens

Extensive red spider damage on evergreens has been reported from all sections of Ohio. The spiders are very small, 8-legged, yellowish-red mites that work on evergreens of all kinds. The mites feed by sucking sap from needles, causing weakened trees that may die when the weather gets hot and dry.

Infected needles are brittle and break off easily. Some look white or light green, but in heavier infestations there is a bronzing effect and the mite webbing can be seen easily.

To determine whether an evergreen is infested, the old gardener suggests holding a branch up against the light and looking for mites as they crawl among the webs. Another way is to strike a tip of one branch sharply on a piece of white paper. This knocks the mites on to the paper where they can be seen. As damage is most severe in hot, dry weather, some control can be obtained by watering evergreens thoroughly and frequently. A small stream of water directed on the tree several times a week will wash off many red spiders, too.

Positive control can be obtained by spraying with nicotine sulfate. Two tablespoons of 40 percent nicotine sulfate (Black Leaf 40) and one ounce of laundry soap per gallon of water will kill red spi-

Make Do

AN OLD TABLE can be converted from an eyesore to a useful, dustproof storage cabinet with counter top by installing shelves and adding panels and doors. Top and sides are covered with the same hard fibreboard. Plan No. AE-158 for this job is available without charge from the Home Service Bureau, Suite 2039, 111 Washington St., Chicago 2, Ill.

The same spray repels dogs from evergreens. A tree three feet in diameter and six feet high will require three to four gallons of spray.

Other chemicals that give good control are Aramite, Dimite and Rotonone dusts. Rotonone dusts containing 0.75 to 1.0 percent rotenone are effective and easy to use on small shrubs around the house. Aramite or Dimite mixed and applied according to manufacturer's directions, also does a good job.

Lilac borers are susceptible to spray during early June, according to Harold Gunderson, extension entomologist at Iowa State College. He says spraying is a way to control borers without heavy pruning that would normally be necessary to get rid of borer-damaged wood.

Spraying stems thoroughly on all sides every two weeks with a spray made from two tablespoons of 50 percent wettable DDT powder in a gallon of water will usually clear up borers. Two or three sprayings is usually plenty.

At this time of the year, the borer larvae have finished doing damage to the lilac and are emerging from last year's tunnels as adult beetles. The tunnels are the holes that do the damage to the lilac.

The adult beetles lay their eggs on the lilac canes. The larvae hatch and eat their way through the bark into the sapwood. DDT, applied to the canes before the eggs hatch, poisons the young borer larvae as they crawl on and chew their way through the bark.

Radio, TV Notebook

By C. E. BUTTERFIELD

NEW YORK (AP)—The second hectic week of program cancellation in favor of convention deliberations, broadcasters expect to get back to normal this week and stay that way until the presidential campaign gets hot enough to take over prime broadcast time.

The radio and TV men came out of the conventions with the hope that the politicians will be able to do something about streamlining their future activities. Listeners and viewers lost a lot of sleep sticking through 3 a. m. adjournments.

While the broadcasters gave millions of people a real glimpse of democracy in action by the first coast to coast telecast, the feeling seems to be that the same job could be accomplished through closer adherence to the split-time schedule of radio-TV.

During the conventions program schedules are difficult to maintain, and extra costs are heavy. Despite the fact the networks had sponsor cooperation, the amount received, they indicated, fell far short of actual expense.

Dem Ticket Charged
Selected By Truman

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Republican national chairman, Arthur E. Summerfield, says the Democratic national ticket was "hand picked" by President Truman and it can't win in November.

"The people . . . have had enough," Summerfield said Sunday. "They can see through the false faces that the political bosses of the opposition party have honed in the hopes of carrying on their nefarious business-as-usual for another four years."

Pair Captured After Flight From Jail

HOLYOKE, Colo. — Sixteen persons, seven of them children, were imprisoned for hours in a farmhouse on the Eastern Colorado sandhills by two gun-brandishing youths during a short-lived Sunday flight from jail.

The pair, identified by State Highway Patrolman Darold Hartsook as Glenn Maynard, 19, of Amherst, Colo., and Ronald Davey, 17, of Indianapolis, apparently believed they had killed Sheriff Harry Clements when they broke jail yesterday.

One of their hostages said they talked of the "killing" and warned that there was certain to be a gun battle at the farmhouse.

Actually, Clements suffered only cuts and abrasions from a beating and was resting at his home in "good" condition when the youths were captured about dusk at a highway barricade.

They surrendered meekly—without going for their weapons—Sgt. F. N. Christiansen of the Colorado Highway Patrol and Willard Bollen, Holyoke police chief, only a few miles from the Colorado-Nebraska border, near Laird, Colo.

After the sheriff was beaten yesterday morning, the two manacled him to a third prisoner in the jail and fled in the sheriff's radio-equipped car. They seized weapons as they left.

About 9 a.m., Farmer Frank Myers related, they appeared at his farmhouse three miles from Wray, Colo., waving their weapons. They threatened Myers, 58, his wife Ella, their son Myrland and their daughter, Mrs. Harry Strauch of Denver and her two children.

Myers told Sterlin Advocate reporter Ed Olson, that the Myers family had planned a reunion at the farmhouse. He said that all persons who arrived were admitted while the intruders stood by with drawn weapons.

The men, he said, were tied to chairs, but the women were allowed to move around and even were directed to prepare lunch. The children were confined to the house but were not bothered, he related, and the two escapees even played with them at times.

Once, he told Olson, a gun discharged and the bullet grazed the leg of his daughter, Mrs. Willard Walz, but he expressed belief "it was an accident."

Myers said, the pair became nervous about the number of persons being held and feared someone would start a search so they fled in Walz's car.

Police nabbed them at a road-block. Both were being held on robbery and auto theft charges when they made their break.

17 States Ask For National Income Tax Limit Amendment

WASHINGTON — Seventeen states have asked that a national convention be called to amend the Constitution — but no one knows how to go about it.

Legal experts for the House Judiciary Committee reported today, after intensive research, that nobody knows how to put on a constitutional convention, and urged Congress to consider legislation clearing up the question.

All 21 amendments have been adopted under one constitutional procedure: They were proposed by Congress and ratified by three fourths of the states.

The Constitution also provides that Congress must call an amending convention upon petition of two thirds of the state legislatures — 32 at present.

This method has never been used. But now several states have proposed it in petitioning for an amendment that would restrict Congress' taxing authority to 25 per cent of incomes, except during a national emergency.

Records show that Congress has received 32 petitions from 27 states on the tax problem. In addition, Texas and Louisiana have passed resolutions but have not forwarded them to Congress.

Six states later cancelled their petitions by other resolutions — Alabama, Arkansas, Illinois, Kentucky, Rhode Island and Wisconsin. The experts said the law is silent but they thought states should be allowed to change their minds.

Maryland's petition was approved only by the House of Delegates. The experts expressed belief both houses should agree on a petition before this constitutes action by a legislature within the meaning of the Constitution.

The governors of Montana and Pennsylvania vetoed tax petitions passed by their legislatures. The Constitution was no help, so the experts suggested that the petitions should be considered valid anyway, on the basis of available precedent.

Consequently, they reported that 20 states appeared to have valid petitions on file. These are Delaware, Florida, Georgia, Indiana, Iowa, Kansas, Maine, Michigan, Mississippi, Nebraska, New Hampshire, New Jersey, New Mexico, Pennsylvania, Utah, Virginia, Wyoming, Nevada, Montana and Massachusetts.

Temporary interment, at her own request, will be in the hall of the 6,000,000-member General Labor Confederation (GLC). She was the unofficial head of the GLC, and her following among its members made her the nation's most potent political force after Peron himself. The slim beauty was regarded as the most powerful woman in politics in the world.

The nation's military chiefs decreed her a funeral hitherto reserved for Presidents who died in office.

Two days of national grief and 30 days of official mourning were declared.

Mariann and Marilyn Stratton, Mrs. Stratton, Sylvia Roth, Susie Gidley and Kathleen Kampher enjoyed the ball game and train trip to Cleveland Thursday. Some of the girls went on a dairy tour July 11.

The next meeting will be at the home of Betty Martig on Aug. 4.

After the first breeding season, both the male and female eel die. Approximately 10,000,000 eggs are produced in a breeding season.
